

Environmental Awareness for Construction

Awareness of environmental issues is vital to every organisation in the construction industry; this practical course helps organisations to understand and control their environmental impacts.

Course objectives

This one day introductory programme is aimed at people in the construction sector who want to improve their understanding of environmental issues. This course allows you to identify the key environmental issues, the legal obligations and how to achieve environmental improvements and cost savings.

Course content

This highly interactive course covers the following topics

- Introduction
- Environmental issues
- Construction and the environment
- Environmental legislation
- Practical environmental management
- Resource Use and Resource Efficiency
- Site Waste Management Plans
- Environmental Management Systems

Who should attend?

The course is ideal for anyone working directly or indirectly in the construction sector who need a basic awareness of environmental issues including: site managers, site supervisors, quantity surveyors and site staff.

What will you learn?

By the end of the course you will learn about the main environmental issues are and how to start to improve your businesses environmental performance.

For more information contact us on 01423 781218 or info@aspexint.com

