

Environment at Work

Awareness of environmental issues is vital to every organisation today; this course helps organisations to control their environmental impacts.

Course objectives

This one day introductory programme is aimed at people in business, commerce and industry who want to improve their understanding of environmental issues in their workplace. This course allows you to identify the key environmental issues, the legal obligations and how environmental improvements and cost savings can be made within your work place.

Course content

This highly interactive course covers the following topics

- Introduction
- Environmental issues
- Business and the environment
- Environmental legislation
- Practical environmental management
- Environmental Management Systems

Who should attend?

The course is ideal for anyone, from a range of sectors, who needs a basic awareness of environmental issues at work, including: health and safety management, quality management, facilities management, engineering, training, human resources and administration.

What will you learn?

By the end of the course you will learn about the main environmental issues are and how to start to improve your businesses environmental performance.

For more information contact us on 01423 781218 or info@aspexint.com

